HYDE PARK IN VAUDEVILEL

GREAT AGGREGATION OF SPECIAL-ISTS FROM OUT WESTPORT WAY.

They Delight the Critical Tastes of I pper-Tendom-A "Show" That Was Thoroughly Upto-Date.

Hyde park did an awful thing last night. It gave a "show." It really never did such a thing before. It has had pink teas and o'clock teas, buffet luncheous and noon reakfasts, Wagnerian musicales and Browning clubs, golf and button-button, but hever until has night did Hyde park ttempt a "show." Hyde park being undate, the show was vaudeville. Nothing again.

Howsomever, the show came off as per the ad, and here's lookin' at you.

As variety shows go, the one last night was a howling success. It was held under canvas—a small tent at Humboldt avenue and Warwick boulevard. It was a brilliant and a sympathetic audience that crowded the little tent to suffocation. The wealth and fashion of Hyde park and other fashionable sections of the city were there. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Holmes, Mr. A. R. Meyer and daughter, Judge Jefferson Brumback, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Coates, Mrs. Henry Hepkins, Mrs. W. B. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Washburn, Dr. J. F. Binnie, Henry Wellman, H. F. Lang, Colonel W. R. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nettleton, Dr. and Mrs. St. Clair Streett, W. S. Gilbert, J. M. Nave, W. H. Chapman, Gardiner Lethrop, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bell, W. A. Bacon.

The first thing on the programme was a motter of chorus, the chorus being composed of the following: Miss Lacy Christy. posed of the following: Miss Lucy Christy, Miss A. V. B. Osburn, Miss Van Brunt,

MR. C. J. HUBBARD, $19,000 Specialist.

Miss Helen Van Brunt, Miss Dickinson, Miss Edith Howes, Miss Marraret Howes, Mr. Frank Dickinson, Mr. Henry Jones, Mr. Jack Firth, Mr. F. Stanley Young, Mr. Osburn Van Brunt. This chorus, like its old Greek prototype, told what the excitement was all about and was a very fair index of what was to follow. It is due to the chorus to say that every promise made on the bills was fulfilled with scrupulcus exactitude.

Mr. Stanley Young was an inimitable master of ceremonies and acted the part of impresario to perfection, adding not a little to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mr. Frank Brumback gave an exceptionally clever imitation of a Populist office-seeker arranging for inforcement by the Jackson County Reform Club. It was all about a "Rube from Mud creek," whose son got religion and beat him out of $100 and two $15 pigs, but the Idea was the same.

Mr. Jack Nave gave Mr. E. W. Townsend a few pointers on how "Chimmie Palden" really acted and talked. Mr. Nave's monologue selection from "Chimmie's adventures was very eleverly given.

WESTERN UNION'S REMOVAL

WILL BE QUARTERED IN A WHOLLY NEW HOME TO-MORROW.

Everything Entirely New From Base ment to Operating Room - A Model Telegraph Office-Wonderful Growth.

The main offices of the Western Union elegraph Company, which have for wenty-five years been located on the north the of Fifth street just west of Main thest, will be moved to-morrow morning o the three-story building at the south Sunday is chosen by Mr. M. D. Wood, su-perintendent of the Kansas City branch of to Western Union, as moving day, be the Western Chion, as moving day, because business is always light on that day.

Meving, in this instance, is merely a technical term. It will be move in the nature of a "swap," In fact, nothing but the operators will be moved. In every ther sense of the word it will be trading in old home for a new one. Everything from the porcelain lettering on the win-dows on the Main street front to the flagsows on the Main street front to the flagpole on the top of the building, is new.

The Western Union will occupy the first and thaird floors of the building entire, as well as the basement and a portion of the second floor. The main entrance is through a double short at the northeast angle. The main corridor of the office is large and commodous, and well lighted. An oak counter is surmounted by a frosted glass partition. The partition is fitted with winhows for the manager, the cashier, and also for the reception and delivery of messaies. Behind this counter Manager Wood.
Cashier Long and Solicitor Murphy winhave offices. At the north side will be airinterest the counter for receiving messages.

After a message has been received it will be checked and placed in a pneumatic tube.

With a whisk it will be transported to the third floor on which the operators are sitinted, when it has passed through the hards of an inspector, or checkman, as he is called, it is carried to an operator, over whose wire it has be sent, and that's the first of it.

To the rear of the receiver's desk are several desks for the bookkeepers and the apparatus of the Missouri District Telegraph Company. This concern is owned principally by employees of the Western Union and is supplied with twenty registers in the office. The files of the Western Union will be kept in a small room to the rear of the main office. On the Delaware street side of the building, which is twelve feet below Main street, a door will be cut for messenger loys who have messages for persons on the west side of town. In a room south of this entrance a branch office of the Western Union will be maintained. Below this floor, in the maintained. Below this floor, in the and heating apparatus of the tele-h company. The dynamo and blower, e pneumatic tube system, will also be nated in the basement of the pneumatic tube system, will also be situated in the basement.

For the present, the front portion of the second floor will be leased. To the rear will be stimated the lavatories and lockers of the employes. Separate stairs lead from the men's and women's departments on the second floor to the operating room, on the third floor. This room is perfect in every detail. It is well ventilated and lighted and land desk accommodations for Lo operators. At present the Western Union employs 15 operators. Each desk is supplied with a sliding top, in order that a typewriter may be used on it if necessary. The sounder on each desk is raised twelve inches and supplied with a resonator, I. e., a cone-shaped wooden hood, to throw the clicks of the sounder into the operator's ears. This obviates confusion. At hight the room will be lighted with sixteen four jet gar chundellers.

The current for the use of the instruments will be supplied by eighteen Cracker-Wheeler dynames. Nine of these dynames will be in constant use. The other nine will be kept in reserve in case there is a breakdown. The use of batterles to generate current will be no longer in vogue. Power to move the dynamos will be obtained from the Edison Light Company. The switchboard, into which all the wires entering the building center, is situated on the south side of the room. Wires run from it to the instruments in the room. They are all laid under a false floor. Two hundred lineandescent burners form the resist-entering the humang center, is situated on the south side of the room. Wires run from it to the instruments in the room. They are all laid under a false floor. Two hundred head seems burners form the resistance for the whole system. They are situated above the switchboard.

When a wire gets grounded, the circuit is shortened, causing the light, which is at the end of the wire, to increase in power. The defective wire is thus soon located. In the operating room are two desks for the use of the Wheatstone automatic telegraph system. This system is one of almost unlimited capacity. The messages are cut into a tape with a Morse machine, and are then automatically transmitted by means of the Wheatstone instrument. It is said 2.00 messages per day can be transmitted over one wire by this system, where ordinarily only 30 messages could be sent over the same wire.

ordinarily only 300 messages could be sent over the same wire.

In the point of receipts for 18% Kansas City stands fifth in the Western Union's business. Thirty-one years ago, when Mr. Wood first joined the forces of the Western Union in Kansas City, it had a small office on the levee. The force then consisted of one man, besides himself, and they took time-about with the night press report. In 1852 the office was moved to West Fifth street, but it only occupied one floor for some years. for some years.
T. P. Cook. Western superintendent of the Western Union, arrived in town yester-day for the purpose of being present when the new quarters are first occupied.

His eyes refuse to slumber after 5:30 each morning. He gets up, takes a cold bath, reads the paper, and is almost invertably the first man in the dining room. He wastes no time at breakfast, but hurries to the cable and enjoys a long ride. His favorite ride is out to the Euclid avenue greenhouses, where he spends an hour studying the spiendid floral collection. He is an enthusiastic lover of flowers and has bought quite a collection of roses and fine blooming house plants with which his home will be brightened. He always comes in from the greenhouses wearing a boutonniere. Yesterday morning he wore a hily that was evidently of the class the sacred writer had in mind when he said, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." been omitted from the record.

Dr. Jenkins presented the record last right. It is in the form of an ordinary looking rock picked up at Tenth and Baltimore a few days ago. With the aid of a stereopticon. Dr. Jenkins showed it on a screen, and from it around interestingly on the geology of Kansas City. His beture was on 'The Rocks of Jackson County.' and was delivered to a large audience. He showed pictures of the bidfis and described their geological formation. The hed of the Missouri river, he said, was once minety feet deeper than the present had. The channel was cut by the waters from the meeting he which extended from the North pole to about the present site of Sioux City some hundreds thousands of years ago.
